How we collect your information

We will collect information about you and your financial position from you directly

When you apply for a loan, or for an increase to your credit limit, we may collect information about your credit history from a credit reporting body. We can do this without your consent.

The credit reporting body will record the fact that we have enquired about your credit history, and that record may be disclosed to other credit providers and used and disclosed by the credit reporting body or a credit provider to assess your credit worthiness, including in the calculation of your credit score or credit rating.

When a credit enquiry is recorded on your credit report, it can affect your credit score in different ways. It might go up, down, or stay the same. This depends on factors like the type of credit you're applying for, how many other credit checks you've had recently, and other details in your report. An enquiry is more likely to lower your credit score if you make a lot of credit applications in a short time.

How you can access your information

You can request access to your information at any time.

What if you do not wish to provide us with information?

If you do not give us the information we require, we may not be able to admit you to membership or provide you with the financial service or product you have applied for.

Providing your information to credit reporting bodies

The credit reporting body we disclose information to is Equifax.

If you do not make your repayments when they fall due or commit a serious credit infringement, we may disclose this to Equifax. Any information we provide to Equifax will be included in reports provided to credit providers to help them to assess your credit worthiness.

You can ask Equifax not to use your information for pre-screening of direct marketing by a credit provider. You can also ask them not to use or disclose your information if you reasonably believe that you have been or are likely to be a victim of fraud.

Equifax's policy on the management of information is available at equifax.com.au.

You can contact Equifax by:

- Phone: 13 83 32
